Student Selection Process

Undergraduate Course Applicants

Photography Studies College (Melbourne) is a participant in the Victorian Tertiary Admissions Centre (VTAC) application process. Domestic applicants applying for full time study are directed to apply through VTAC. Some exceptions apply. Student selection is based on each applicant meeting minimum tertiary entrance requirements or equivalent.

Undergraduate Course Applicants (with a completed qualification of the Advanced Diploma of Photography) are required to apply directly to the College

Each applicant is required to attend an interview and present a folio.

The Folio: All folios should contain 8 - 10 images and show a range of creative work demonstrating an exploration of ideas and themes. This, together with the applicant's process workbook, ideas journal and or visual diary should represent their ideas, concepts, inspirations, abilities and investigative processes. The work should demonstrate the applicant's creative potential and aptitude for photography. Applicants will discuss and answer questions about the folio they present during the selection interview.

The Interview: The interviewing team may be comprised of Photography Studies College (Melbourne) staff, teachers or graduates. The interview allows the applicant to communicate their folio ideas and concepts, both visually and orally. In viewing and discussing the applicant's folio Photography Studies College (Melbourne) is looking for evidence that their work demonstrates originality, creative and conceptual potential and a capacity for visual exploration. Each applicant will be provided with the opportunity to ask questions, tour the college, view facilities and current student work.

All International Course Applicants are required to apply directly to the College. For applicants not in Australia, an interview will be arranged by phone or video link.

Including the above stated requirements; evidence of achieving one of the following levels of English language proficiency will be required:

- International English Language Testing System (IELTS) Academic Module: Overall score of 6.0 (no band less than 6.0);
- TOEFL Internet: Test score 65 (minimum writing score 21);
- Pearson Test of English (PTE): Overall score 50 -57 (no section score less than 50);
- University of Cambridge – Advanced (CAE): Total score of 169;
- Evidence of ability to pay the international tuition fees, overseas student health cover cost, equipment requirement costs, other course material costs and living expenses

Graduate Course Applicants

For full details of the application and admissions process for graduate programs at Photography Studies College (Melbourne), prospective applicants should refer to the Master of Arts Photography application selection and admissions policy.

Details of application and interview process are as follows. All applicants are required to apply directly to the college, each applicant is required to attend an interview and present evidence of current creative practice including a project proposal and personal statement. Applications should be accompanied by a professional experience statement, resume/CV, and certified copies of testamur/s and transcripts.

Evidence of current creative practice: A submission of selected 20 to 30 images evidencing your current creative practice;

This, together with the applicant's project proposal (up to 500 words) and a personal statement (100 words) should represent their ideas, concepts, inspirations, abilities and investigative processes. The work should demonstrate the applicant's creative potential and aptitude for photography. Applicants will discuss and answer questions about the folio they present during the selection interview.

The Interview: The interviewing team may be comprised of the Photography Studies College (Melbourne) Higher Education Course Director and Teacher/s. Each applicant will be provided with the opportunity to demonstrate an objective, critical and reflective relationship to their work. In viewing and discussing the applicant's creative practice, the interview is used to assess the extent to which a candidate demonstrates

- a thoughtful and responsible approach to practice
- their capacity for independent research / professional practice
- appropriate critical and reflective abilities
- an awareness of the cultural and social context within which they practice
- appropriate communication skills
